NOTES ON STATION 2:

The files with the rock information are intended to be constructed as a booklet for the teachers to assist the students in learning about the various types of rocks and how they may have originated. These rocks match the hand samples in the COAS suitcase kit. Each student would look at each sample and complete a “card,” describing their observations and conclusions, and then discuss these with the group and teacher.

If you are using this resource for your own lessons, we suggest you contact a local supplier of rocks and minerals and create similar collections of hand samples and booklets.
