

FALL FORAGE FESTIVAL 2018

sponsored by

All are welcome to join us for the Fall Forage Festival in Corvallis, Oregon, November 16th and 17th, 2018.

If you grow or feed hay, work with livestock, manage pasture or have interest in the science and human energy that goes into the sward or bale, this is the gathering for you!

Interact with the Northwest's finest hay growers, livestock managers, forage seed producers, Extension educators and researchers, agricultural consultants and livestock farmers.

Nov 16th: nutrient value of hays, hay storage & its impact on quality, matching hay to livestock class, coping with drought, current research, resources in the Pacific Northwest

Nov 17th: Hay King Contest- an extravaganza of hay, from many different farms, will be assessed visually and compared to chemical analysis of nutrient content and digestibility. The judges will keep you enthralled! To enter your hay: <http://oregonhaygrowers.com/>

Friday, Nov. 16th 8:30am-4:30pm at Guerber Hall, Benton County Fairgrounds, 110 SW 53rd, Corvallis OR 97333 lunch included.

Register by email to Jerome Magnuson: jmagnuson@dlfna.com Include Fall Forage Festival 2018 in the subject. Indicate name(s) and affiliation. Friday registration of $30 is payable by check or cash at the door on Nov. 16th. No charge for students with valid id.

Saturday, Nov. 17th 9am at the Oldfield Animal teaching Facility, 3521 SW Campus Way, Corvallis, OR 97333. Parking & admission for no additional charge on Saturday.