

TAO YIN

Now:

Lecturer
Huazhong Agricultural
University, Wuhan, China

Email: yintao@mail.hzau.edu.cn or yintao_cn@163.com

Tao Yin graduated from Huazhong Agricultural University, and then began working as a lecturer at the same university in 2015. Areas of research emphasis include: surimi and surimi-based products from fresh water fish; fish by-products, especially fish bone; structure and functionality properties of fish proteins. He has been the PI of 6 projects, which have received about US$ 100 Thousands in grant money. And he has published 45 refereed journal articles (including accepted), 2 Chinese patents. He married Dr. Liu Shi in Jan. 2016, and they had a lovely son (Yue Ming Yin) in Oct. 2017.

Then:

PH. D. in Food Science
2009-2015
Huazhong Agricultural
University, Wuhan, China

Tao received Doctoral degree from Huazhong Agricultural University in Jun. 2015. He studied at Surimi seafood lab as an exchange student from Oct. 2012 to Jul. 2013, financially supported by China Scholarship Council. Prof. Shanbai Xiong and Dr. Jae W. Park served as co-advisors for his study. Thesis title: STUDIES ON PRODUCTION AND CHARACTERIZATION OF NANO FISH BONE AND THE MECHANISM OF ITS INFLUENCES ON SURIMI GELATION. Publications related to surimi and surimi byproducts (fish bone) include: